

An Update on Our Response to Coronavirus (COVID-19)

To our clients and colleagues:

During this unparalleled time in the United States and the challenges created by the COVID-19 situation, we want to assure you that the attorneys and staff at BSPH are fully prepared to service and provide legal counsel to all of our clients. There will be no interruption in our services and clients may rest assured we will continue to advance their interests and fully represent them in all pending matters and future assignments.

Effective Wednesday, March 18, BSPH has made in-office presence for our employees optional. Everyone at BSPH; the attorneys, executive legal assistants, paralegals, nurse consultants and business support service are fully equipped to work remotely each and every day. We will continue to remain open for business to ensure you have the effective legal counsel and representation you or your insureds require.

Our entire BSPH family wishes you and your loved ones well and we look forward to seeing this situation to the other side, when all aspects of life, professional and personal, will return to normal.
